Excerpt: . advantage, by bidding off property at greatly less than its true value: and where that is the case, the Probate Court ought not to confirm the sale; nor ought the purchaser to be heard to complain, that he has not been suffered to speculate, at the expense of those interested in the estate. It will suffice to dispose of the present case, that the complainant was bound to take notice of the action of the Court, setting aside the sale. If she had any sufficient ground of opposition to the order of the Court, it should then have been urged: and if her rights were not duly considered and respected, her remedy was an appeal from the order by which she was agrieved. Having failed to complain of the action of the Court at the proper time, she was not entitled afterwards to be heard to complain; and her petition was rightly dia It would seem that the Court will not , of its own motion, order a certiorari, to perfect the transcript, although the appellant has appeared by brief only, and the omission has escaped the notice of his counsel; at all events, where it is apparent that it would make no difference in the decision of the cause. A mere omission in one part of the charge of the Court, if supplied, substantially, in another part, is not sufficient ground for reversing the judgment, where there is no cause to apprehend...
